

Mr. Sean Gallagher

Topic--The DaVinci Code

Sean Gallagher, a reporter for The Criterion and a member of St. Therese of the Child Jesus Parish in Indianapolis, studied history and music history as an undergraduate at Marian College, earned a master's degree in medieval history at the University of Notre Dame, and two masters in theology at St. Meinrad School of Theology. He has taught Church history for St. Meinrad in several deacon formation programs in dioceses across the country. He has also given workshops on Church history and other theological and spiritual topics in parishes, including St. Joseph Parish in Shelbyville, where he served as director of religious education for over three years before moving on to The Criterion. He has also published as a free-lance writer in such publications as The National Catholic Register, Envoy, Our Sunday Visitor and Lay Witness.